

Developmental Psychology of Children II

Rev. 1.18.2023

This is an advanced course in child development and education. Students increase their knowledge, experience, and job skills at an work-based learning placement. Advanced projects further develop skills. Students will focus on: observation of children and programs; communicating with children, staff, and parents; planning age-appropriate curriculum; and understanding the history, theories, philosophies, and legal aspects of careers related to children.

Work-based learning placement is a required component of the program and students must provide their own transportation. Students in after-school paid work-based learning placements may earn up to five additional credits per high school semester or trimester. To learn more about this course see our course catalog or visit our website at www.tvrop.org

Students can earn. . .

- 20 high school credits
- Transferable college credits
- UC a-g "g" approval (College-Preparatory Elective)
- CPR Certification & eligible for California Commission on Teacher Credentialing (CCTC), Early Childhood Assistant Permit

Enroll Now!

Visit your career center today!

www.tvrop.org

